Summary

The Tett Centre for Creativity and Learning at 370 King Street West, Kingston, Ontario is currently accepting proposals from emerging professional artists to rent one of its eight Creativity Studios. These bright creative spaces are located in a historic building on the shores of Lake Ontario.

Studio B is available for a six-month non-renewable license term. Artists at all stages of their careers and from all disciplines who commit to a program of community engagement and who meet the criteria are encouraged to submit proposals.

Our Mandate

The Tett Centre for Creativity and Learning (TCCL) is a not-for-profit, charitable arts organization that operates an historic city-owned building on Kingston's waterfront. We provide professionally equipped and affordable space to artists and arts organizations for artistic creation.

The Tett Centre is home to nine arts organizations (including the TCCL), eight individual resident artist studios (Creativity Studios), and four multi-use rentable public spaces. We are a dynamic arts hub that coordinates and creates high-quality, accessible, arts-focused programming for all levels of artistic abilities and experience.

Our partners include artists, arts and community organizations, The Isabel Bader Centre for the Performing Arts, and the City of Kingston's Department of Cultural Services.

As a unique cultural landmark for Kingston residents and area visitors, we enhance learning and public participation in the arts.

The Creativity Studio Program

The Creativity Studios fill a need in Kingston and the broader arts community for affordable, high quality, community-based arts studios thereby supporting the mandate of the TCCL. Creativity Studio artists have access to studio space with public exposure and unique opportunities in a vibrant arts community. In exchange, artists are required to take part in the larger Tett community by offering engaging activities such as small drop-in workshops, demonstrations, presentations, skill-sharing, advertised open studio times, and off-site promotion of the Tett Centre to promote public participation in the arts for a total of two and a half (2.5) hours per month. This time is known as the "Community Engagement Contribution" (CEC). Artists work with the Tett Centre's Program and Communications Coordinator to develop these activities and integrate them into the broader artistic programming of the Tett Centre. This opportunity to give back to the community is an exciting and integral part of the Tett and its presence in Kingston and beyond.

Artists have unlimited building access, respecting quiet hours between 11:00PM and 7:00AM.

The Tett Centre is host to public and private events throughout the year. Artists can expect daily visitors to the Tett who come for a variety of reasons: tours, workshops, conferences, rehearsals, arts camps, and events held in conjunction with our partners and community renters.

Each studio is intended for one artist. A maximum of two artists can share a studio, but each artist must apply individually and make note of the intent to share the space.

Creativity Studio Artists are required to adhere to all Tett Centre for Creativity and Learning policies and to comply with any municipal, provincial, and federal health and safety measures and restrictions.

The Tett Centre for Creativity and Learning expects safe business practices from all its licensees and tenants.

Artists are expected to use the space primarily for art creation. For private instruction, group sizes must adhere to fire regulations, and Creativity Studio Artists must receive prior approval from Tett Staff to run classes.

Spaces are available to rent in the Tett Centre for workshops and classes outside of the studios at reduced rates.

An evaluation by the TCCL of an artist's Community Engagement Contribution is used for annual Creativity Studio license renewal.
